3Q23E earnings to grow YoY; Top Pick CPALL

We expect 3Q23 retail sector earnings to decline QoQ due to seasonal impact but grow YoY on moderate sales growth and margin expansion. SSSG is likely to normalize on a high base but store expansion should boost top lines. Among retail players, we forecast CPALL to post the strongest earnings growth in 3Q23, driven by rising customer traffic, price hikes and lower financial expenses. CPALL remains our Top Pick.

CPALL to post strongest 3Q growth

We estimate 3Q23 earnings of retail players under our coverage including CPALL, BJC, HMPRO and GLOBAL at THB7.45b (+8% YoY, -7% QoQ). All names are expected to post QoQ earnings drops on seasonal factors. We expect CPALL to deliver the strongest earnings growth of 15% YoY, followed by BJC (+12%) and HMPRO (+4%) but GLOBAL's earnings are likely to decrease by 23% YoY.

Moderate sales growth, coupled with rising GPM

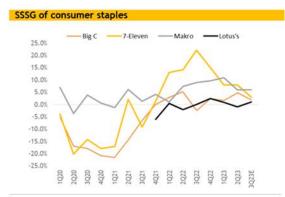

We forecast retail sector sales to fall 4% QoQ on seasonal impact but grow 4% YoY to THB278.5b in 3Q23 due to positive SSSG and store expansion. After posting exceptionally high SSSG of +22.1% in 3Q22, 7-Eleven is likely to see normalized SSSG of +3% in 3Q23. We expect customer traffic to continue to rise while ticket size remains flat. SSSG at Makro and Lotus's is expected at +6% and 1%, respectively. We forecast Big C SSSG at +2%, as stores are transformed to serve tourists. On the other hand, GLOBAL and DOHOME are likely to see negative SSSG of 7% and 8%, respectively, on slow construction activity. Ongoing store expansion should be catalysts for CPALL and HMPRO. We also expect CPALL and BJC to see higher gross margin both YoY and QoQ in 3Q23E. CPALL will gain from selling price adjustment at 7-Eleven since late 3Q22 and increasing sales of ready-to-eat and personal care products. BJC should benefit from declining energy costs and more sales contributions from Big C tourist stores.

Robust 4Q23E and FY24E earnings

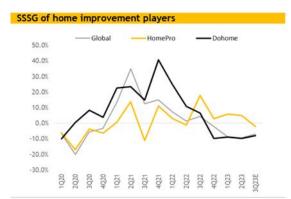

The shooting incident at Siam Paragon on 3 Oct will be negative for tourism. However, tourist sales represent just 3-9% of retail sales while we believe the festive season, more promotions, and government policies (lower energy prices) will spur domestic consumption in 4Q23. We expect the robust earnings for CPALL, BJC and HMPRO which are likely to deliver both YoY and QoQ growth. GLOBAL's earnings, however, will remain weak as 4Q is low season for building material sales. We project retail sector earnings to grow 18% in FY24 on government stimulus measures, continuing store expansion and product mix shift toward high-margin items.
